We CARE!

"We CARE!" is a campaign the Family Welfare Centre (FWC) is organising for the first time this year. Ms Jacelyn Chan from FWC, who leads the campaign, said that CARE stands for "Cherish, Appreciate and Respect Everyone". She also shared where she drew the idea for the campaign from:

"My father is the most caring person I know. I have witnessed countless times when he offered family members, friends, neighbours and even strangers a helping hand. He says that he came from a very poor family and has met with much kindness over the years. He motivates me to treat others with kindness. As I grew up, I realised that many people do not show kindness. That prompted me to want to get more people to perform kind acts."

According to Ms Chan, the campaign will start by offering assistance to needy students. The FWC has plans to run the campaign annually and gradually target more and more groups of people.

The "We CARE!" Funfair will be held to officially kick off the campaign. Participants of all ages can join in the activities to find out more about the campaign and take the first step in lending support.

Volunteers are needed urgently for the "We CARE!" Funfair to:

- man the game booths during the funfair.
- pack and deliver school shoes after the funfair.

To sign up, call Mr Jeremy Chin at 61164166 before 22 November 2019.

"Come on in, Jane!" I shouted at my 7-year-old sister. She refused to budge and remained seated by the edge of the pool. I rolled my eyes in frustration at her as I had wasted fifteen minutes of my precious time coaxing her. It was the June holidays, and I was teaching my sister how to swim at a public pool near our house.

It all started with an agreement I had made with my mother. She had promised to sign me up for water polo classes on one condition – that I succeeded in teaching my sister just one basic swim stroke during the holidays. However, I was having difficulty trying to sympathise with Jane's incomprehensible fear of being in water. I had always prided myself on being fearless in water and swimming came naturally to me, just like walking or running.

My patience was running out. I knew it was time to use the hard approach. Stealthily, I dived under the water to pull Jane in by her legs. An ear-splitting scream broke the peaceful calm of the surroundings as Jane fell into the water with a splash. She thrashed her arms wildly, trying to stay afloat. Tickled, I tried not to chuckle as I grabbed her by the waist to help her regain her balance.

The commotion seemed to have attracted the attention of some onlookers. From the corner of my eye, I saw a peculiar elderly lady swimming towards us. With her neon pink swimming cap, it was hard to miss her. Her curious eyes darted from Jane to me, as if assessing the situation.

Ignoring the elderly lady, I faced Jane and held both her arms firmly. Next, I persuaded Jane to lift both of her legs so that she could float. Jane hesitated momentarily before complying. I then let go of Jane's arms slowly. Unfortunately, Jane accidentally gulped a mouthful of water and started struggling. Clinging on to me desperately, Jane screamed, "Don't let go of me!" I tried my best to calm Jane down and led her back to the edge of the pool. In a firm voice, I told her that being brave was about being fearless, just like me when I was in the water.

It was then that I heard mocking laughter behind me. Startled by it, I turned around. It was that elderly lady again! The fact that she had been observing Jane and me sneakily made me uncomfortable. On top of that, she appeared to be ridiculing my advice for Jane. "Excuse me, Madam. Did I say something wrong?" I queried, trying my best to hide the irritation in my voice.

"Yes!" she replied instantly before addressing Jane. "Girl! Don't listen to your brother! Go ahead and be fearful! Be afraid of the water, but learn to swim anyway! Bravery is about facing your fear, first of all, and then overcoming it."

It was then that I realised her words rang true. I had indeed given Jane the wrong advice. Out of shame, I refused to meet the elderly lady's eyes. Then, to my surprise, Jane, on her own accord, waded towards me and tried to learn how to float in the water once more. The determined look in her eyes told me that this time round, the results were going to be different.
